Overview

What is France's energy sector?

France's energy sector is dominated by fossil fuels and nuclear energy; the latter of which France is the most strenuous supporter and largest producer in Europe.

Does France have a green energy strategy?

France does have a strategy for increasing the use of green energy. Green energy is a centerpiece of the country's "France Relance" economic recovery efforts. The French government plans to reduce nuclear in the energy mix for electricity production from over 70 percent to 50 percent by 2035 and increase the role of renewables.

How much nuclear power does France produce a year?

France produces approximately 405 TWH of nuclear power annually. The impact of the 1973 oil shock led the French government to initiate a program to build 16 reactors of 900 Megawatts of electricity (MWe), and 20 additional reactors of 1,300 Mwe after 1976.

How much will France invest in hydrogen in 2022?

The French government will invest €2 billion in hydrogen through 2022. The French government's hydrogen plan aims to encourage territorial projects to develop 'green' hydrogen for use in industry and mobility.

How many nuclear reactors will France build in 2022?

France announced in February 2022 that it would construct six new nuclear reactors (with studies for an additional eight reactors) and invest €1 billion in small modular reactors (SMRs).
