Can solar power be used for center pivots?

Solar power can be used for center pivots, but there is additional complexity when considering load control. Analysis of solar for center pivots involves understanding how load control, a billing strategy used by utilities, affects their operation.

Should a farmer add solar to a center pivot?

A farmer's desire to add solar to a center pivot may have multiple motivations, some of which are not monetary. Electricity savings and marketing are motivations with monetary value. However, an interest in green energy, sustainability, and an improved sense of independence are also relevant and real motivations, yet they may not yield financial gain.

Is Guatemala a good place to invest in solar energy?

Guatemala is the second largest Central American power market, with a goal to increase renewable energy use. Relatively high levels of solar irradiance and large areas of cleared land give the country a strong potential for increased solar energy development.

How does distributed generation solar work?

Distributed solar generation connected behind the meter to a center pivot is not very common. However, an irrigation system may share a meter with other farm loads such as workshops, livestock buildings, or grain bins. This setup would allow for some solar energy to be used by other loads outside of the irrigation season.

What is the support structure of Horus II solar panels?

The support structure of the panels will be a solar tracker on an east-west axis. Horus II provides 35 MW of power. This solar PV farm is designed with 305/310/315 Wp solar modules equipped with 19 1.5 MW inversion centres with a 1,700 KVA transformer in each centre. Also, it has more than one 1 MW Inversion Centre and a 0.5 MW Inversion Centre.
