Could China gain control of Timor-Leste?

Beyond political support, Timor-Leste is also rich in natural resources, such as oil and minerals, which could be of interest to China. As a result, some narratives suggest that China seeks to gain control over Timor-Leste, driven by its strategic location and resource potential.

Why are Chinese entrepreneurs moving to Timor-Leste?

Chinese products, known for their affordability and increasingly for their good quality, have naturally captured a large share of the local market. As a result, many Chinese entrepreneurs have migrated to Timor-Leste, establishing small businesses that cater to the daily needs of the population.

Does Timor-Leste borrow money from China?

Beyond importing large amounts of cheap Chinese products, Timor-Leste has not borrowed any significant loans from China, and less than 4% of its total overseas developmental aid comes from China. Photo taken from Timor Plaza Hotel. Over the years, these relations have steadily improved.

Why does Timor-Leste have so many Chinese brands?

In prominent shopping areas like Timor Plaza, Chinese brands such as Oppo and Gree are also increasing their presence. This phenomenon is not difficult to understand, given Timor-Leste's lack of a manufacturing base, which means almost all everyday products are imported from overseas.

What is China's relationship with Timor-Leste?

China and Timor-Leste have enjoyed strong bilateral relations that date back to even before Timor-Leste's independence. Historically, China supported the FRETILIN (Revolutionary Front for an Independent East Timor) government as early as 1975 and was one of the few countries to offer aid during East Timor's struggle against Indonesian occupation.
